Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 02 Nov 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Some sunshine, also showers especially for some coastal counties. Chilly.

Today:
Some inland areas of England and southern Scotland seeing only isolated showers; plenty of sunshine and light winds, so not feeling too bad after a cold start. Elsewhere showers rather more widespread but some places escaping. Temperatures slightly below average.

Tonight:
Showers continuing in some western fringes and also the northeast. Elsewhere any showers will be isolated, many areas dry with clear spells. Frost and patchy fog, especially in the south.

Wednesday:
Cloudier skies with showery rain affecting some eastern parts of England, some showers too in western fringes of UK. Elsewhere mainly dry, some sunshine. Rather cold and breezy for many.

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Mostly dry and bright, although showers still likely in coastal areas. Rural frost possible Thursday night in the south. Progressively milder and wetter from the northwest later in the week.
